Dear Parishioners and Friends of the Catholic Parishes of Western Holt and Boyd Counties,

How do we find fulfillment and joy when the effects of sin and strife have marred the past and when hunger, poverty, devastation of the planet, ongoing wars, and terrorism point to a bleak future? In this weekend's gospel (Matt 5:1-12a), Jesus sums up in eight statements a way of life that brings happiness and blessing already in the present, along with the promise of fullness of joy in days to come. There is nothing terribly new in this teaching. The prophets and wisdom teachers before Jesus spoke in a similar manner (e.g. Prov 3:13; 28:14; Sir 25:7-9; Isa 30:18; 32:20). Each statement of the Beatitudes begins, makarioi hoí, "Bless (or "happy") are those who . . ." Each is in the third person plural, indicating communal action and relationship. The first thing the Beatitudes tell us, then, is that living them is not an individual pursuit.

The Beatitudes name the ways in which peoples' happiness is threatened: grinding poverty (the Greek ptechos in verse 3 denotes "beggar," one who is destitute), grief, landlessness, war, and persecution. Jesus does not advise that those so afflicted simply wait for a reversal of fortune in the hereafter, though the final verse does speak of great reward in heaven.

Jesus also counsels attitudes and actions that will bring about the reign of God, already tasted in the present. To be poor in spirit is not to accept poverty as an inevitable state of life, but rather to find one's wealth in God, to trust in God's care for the poor (Exod 22:25-27 ; Isa 61:1), and to seek righteousness, which rectifies the unequal distribution of goods, so that all have enough to thrive.

To be meek is not to be shrinking violets who accept injustice but, rather, to know our proper place as children of God and to ensure that all are treated as full heirs of God's realm. To be peace builders, we are to engage in acts of mercy and forgiveness, which cleanses the heart and allows us to see God in the faces of our brothers and sisters in the here and now. And like the grieving woman who went to the tomb of Jesus, we do not mourn in despair when we suffer a loss, but we allow our sorrow to be transformed by hope in the risen One.

Such a manner of life is able to heal the hurtful memories of the past and to transform the present toward a hope-filled future. This not proposed as an intense form of Christianity meant for only a few select persons (as some in past generations suggested). Jesus addresses this teaching to all his disciples and to a great crowd inviting them to recognize their capacity for happiness in the present by espousing attitudes and actions that will influence the future.

Jesus's teaching is different from often-quoted maxim of Nathaniel Hawthorne (1804-64): "Happiness is a butterfly, which, when pursued, is always just beyond your grasp, but which, if you will sit down quietly, may alight upon you." Happiness is available to us when we pursue Jesus's manner of living which is already within our grasp.

Ad multos annos!
