CALLED BY NAME—Mary. Even in the garden of the resurrection, Jesus goes unrecognized at first. The Gospel of John records a weeping woman, mistaking the risen savior for a gardener. Until, that is, she is called by name. Mary. Robert. Catherine. Joanne. Steven. Hailey. Travis. Jesus rises for you. He rises for me. He rises for each and every one of us. We are called by name in the garden of the resurrection. This Sunday and every Sunday, Jesus comes to meet us. Imagine sitting with him. How is he looking at you? What do you say to him? When the resurrected Lord greets you with a smile, how do you respond?

WELCOME TO THE OCIA MEMBERS:

FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK . . .

Dear Parishioners and Friends of the Catholic Parishes of Western Holt and Boyd Counties,

Jesus Christ is risen, he is risen indeed! Alleluia!

Everything depends on Easter morning. Is the tomb empty or is it not? As Catholics, we believe that on this holiest of days, Jesus Christ, Son of God, rose to new life. We often take this truth for granted, but it was not a guarantee for the apostles that Sunday morning. The news of the empty tomb would change their lives such that they could not do anything other than share the good news of Christ.

Mary Magdalene takes center stage in the gospel reading for Easter Sunday morning (John 20: 1-9), as "Apostle to the Apostles," the one with the privilege of sharing the good news of the resurrection with the disciples. Mary Magdalene has been around since the beginning. Since Jesus released her from seven demons (see Luke 8:2), she followed him all the way to the end. Visiting the tomb before dawn she finds the stone rolled away. She does not yet know what she has seen, but she knows she has seen something. Even someone as faithful as Mary could not yet know that he had risen from the dead. How could she not assume that someone had taken his body? Seeing this, she runs back to Simon Peter with the news. Returning to the tomb, they find Jesus' burial garments neatly folded up, a clear sign that this was not some random robbery. However, they still have not pieced together the truth revealed in the Scriptures, even though the disciples "believed."

Although Jesus appears to Mary Magdalene a few short verses later, she does not recognize him at first, mistaking him for the gardener. Recognizing God in our midst can be a challenge. Even when we trust in God's promises, our hope can be obscured by suffering, by selfishness, by anger or by fear. God's action can surprise or startle us, just as the apostles were shocked when they received the unexpected news on Easter. That God does is easier than why God does. Emerging from the dourness of Lent and the desolation of Good Friday, can we begin to recognize God present in our midst? Can we accept the invitation of Jesus to live in the joy of the resurrection?

If we accept this offer, if we believe that Jesus rose from the dead, then, as Saint Paul says, "Woe to me if I do not preach the gospel! (1 Cor (:16). Like Mary Magdalene, like Peter and the beloved disciple, when we encounter the risen Jesus, we are called to proclaim the gospel, the good news. The resurrection of Christ at Easter is a message that must be broadcast through all space and time. Easter is the final triumph of life over death, of love over evil, of God's kingdom over tyranny and oppression. That is good news the world needs to hear. Do we live as if Christ has truly risen from the dead? Are we willing to share this good news with others, like Peter does in our first reading (Acts 10: 34,37-43)? Like Paul does in his letters? God has already won our salvation, our freedom in Christ our Lord. What else is there for us to do than to share this gospel with all we encounter!

Happy Easter!

Ad multos annos!

Fr. Bernard Starman
Pastor
