EUCCHARISTIC MIRACLES OF THE WORLD PANEL DISPLAY COMING—JANUARY 14th-JANUARY 21st, 2023—St. Boniface will host the Vatican-approved international Eucharistic Miracles of the World exhibit. The Eucharistic Miracles of the World exhibit is a traveling display on loan from Spirit Catholic Radio. It features 39 beautiful panels that highlight some of the most powerful Eucharistic miracles in the world. For more information, visit spiritcatholicradio.com/miracles. The evening of January 21, the Knights of Columbus will be hosting a Soup Supper in conjunction with the Eucharistic panels from 5:45—7:30 p.m. in the church basement.

ROOTED—MEN'S CONFERENCE—Through prayer, keynotes, fellowship and challenge, the Rooted Conference aims to help men establish a firm foundation rooted in Christ. After the success of last year's conferences, we are excited to offer it on three different dates in 2023. Please pray about this & join us! The 3 opportunities to attend are: Feb. 4—Center, NE @ God's Country Barn; Feb. 25—Norfolk, NE @ District Event Center; March 4—Clarkson, NE @ The Barn. Check out ROOTEDNebraska.com for more information.

LIVE LENT TOGETHER—2023—Live Lent Together 2022 was a huge success across the Archdiocese of Omaha. Because of that, LLT will be offered again this coming Lenten season 2023. We are looking for people to be small group leaders. There will be one-on-one training for anyone that might be interested in being a leader. If you would like to be a leader or want more information, please call Jan Kunz @ 340-2303.

ATTENTION ALL KCs: As of January 23rd, any KC member 2+ years past due will be removed from our local #5881 council roster, and moved to a new Affiliated membership classification. In order to continue membership in our council, please remit your payment to Financial Secretary Rick Shearer by January 23, 2023. Any questions, please call Rick at 402-340—4591.

FROM THE DESK OF FATHER STARMAN—

Dear Parishioners and Friends of the Catholic Parishes of Western Holt and Boyd Counties,

The readings for this weekend are rather like a hinged door. The Lectionary pushes it open to allow us to gaze backward at the significant figure of John the Baptist, who points to the One we have celebrated as coming among us in the flesh in the Advent and Christmas seasons. And these same readings also direct our gaze forward to our ongoing call to be servants of God among the nations for the long haul of Ordinary Time. The number of Sundays between the Baptism of the Lord (also called the First Sunday of Ordinary Time) and the First Sunday of Lent varies each year, depending on the date on which Ash Wednesday falls.

What is stressed in this weekend's readings is appropriate as we move out of festal high points: we are called in all seasons, every day to live what we are by the grace of God: chosen and gifted people.

In this weekend's gospel (John 1:29-34) we meet John the Baptist, who also knows his place in salvation history. He sees Jesus coming toward him and points him out as "the Lamb of God, who takes away the sins of the world." Those listening to John, including those sent from the Pharisees (John 1:24) would be sensitive to the Hebrew Biblical, cultic, and liturgical symbol of the lamb, which recalled both the messianic Suffering Servant tradition (Isa 53:7) and the Passover lamb (Exod 12:1-13) in the history of Israel's deliverance. Gathered as eucharistic assembly, we affirm our faith in the One to whom John pointed, who is coming to us not on the Jordan's banks, but as the center of our liturgy: the Lamb of God who, by his life, death, and resurrection, has taken away the sin of the world. The gospel refers to "sin," to the collective brokenness and sinfulness of the world, not to individual sins, and to the collective social and structural evil that will be arrayed against Jesus by his enemies. As human beings we have solidarity in this sin.

The evangelist introduces us to John the Baptist in his prologue (John 1:6-9) because the vision of the prologue is what we hear John is sent to proclaim: Jesus as the preexistent Word, the Spirit-filled one, the Son of God. This weekend's readings suggest that John recognized Jesus when he came to John for baptism, unreported in this gospel. At Jesus's baptism, explains the Baptist, The Holy Spirit descended on him and still remains with him. The last words the Baptist speaks later in the Fourth Gospel sum up his calling: "He must increase; I must decrease" (John 3:30). Our discipleship, too, without possessiveness, without blocking the view of Jesus, must point others to the One who is "coming toward" them. We all need the humility of John the Baptist that recognizes that when we are acting prophetically, it is not our cause, our actions, our self-image, but God's about which we are witnessing.

Happy 100th Birthday to Agnes Krobot!

Ad multos annos!
