An Easter Prayer

*Jesus, on this glorious day,
I thank you for your beautiful resurrection. You promised us new life, and your resurrection gives us hope in the midst of pain and despair. Thank you that I am a new creation in Christ. You are the living hope, and through your life-giving spirit, I am redeemed, saved, and secure in You.
Amen.*

FROM THE DESK OF FATHER STARMAN—

Dear Parishioners and Friends of the Catholic Parishes of Western Holt and Boyd Counties,

Christ the Lord is risen, He is Risen Indeed! Happy Easter!

When a loved one dies, the world seems at first completely out of kilter. Daily rhythms are disrupted. Relationships shift. Things that seemed important before take a back seat, while other urgent concerns come to the fore. A whole reorientation to life without the physical presence of the loved one is necessary. In the gospel for Easter Sunday (John 20:1-9), we catch a glimpse of how the first disciples of Jesus navigated the difficult days in the aftermath of his crucifixion, death, and burial, how they had to construct their lives and purpose anew.

One of the key messages of the Gospel of John, from which the gospel for Easter Sunday morning comes is that the resurrection is not simply a “happily-ever-after” ending or the fulfillment of our expectations. It turns the world on end and defies explanation. It is God’s final parable.

John’s Gospel drives home the central question: Where is Jesus now? A single character, Mary Magdalene, represents the voice of the community, as she seeks her beloved, and laments, “We don’t know where they put him” (Jn 20:2). Her search echoes the lover in the Song of Songs: “I sought him whom my soul loves, I sought him, but found him not” (Song 3:1). The question, “Where?” permeates the whole of John’s Gospel. The first followers want to know, “Where are you staying?” (Jn 1:38). And in his final address to his disciples, Jesus speaks to them about an eternal dwelling place, which is not a geographical space but his very self (Jn 15: 4-10). On Easter morning we hear the first half: he has returned to the Father (Jn 20: 1-9). Mary, Peter, and the Beloved Disciple all verify that he is not in the tomb. The latter two return home, not understanding, but Mary refuses to leave and continues her search.

In the gospel readings that will be proclaimed at the weekday Mass in just a couple of days, on Tuesday in the Octave of Easter, we hear the second half of the answer. Jesus himself appears directly to Mary Magdalene and tells her not to cling to him as the earthly person she knew previously. He directs her to go to the gathered community of the brothers and sisters: it is there that he is to be found alive (Jn 20:17). In the resurrection appearance stories, the gospel focuses more on what happens to us than what happened to Jesus. A gospel that began by reflecting on how “the Word made flesh and made his dwelling among us (Jn 1:14) concludes with the Word becoming enfleshed in each individual believer and in the whole body of the faith community. That is where he is to be found as his transformation is completed in our own.

Where do you experience Christ most present today in your own life? And where in the life of our family of parishes?

Ad multos annos!

Fr. Bernard Starman
Pastor

May you have . . .

The gladness of Easter...which is Hope

The promise of Easter...which is Peace

The spirit of Easter...which is Love.
